After you failed to respond over 1 month ago I proceeded to file like I told you I would and I have claimed both of the kids, since it is almost impossible for you to even give them $20 twice a month for art class, you tell them to ask mom, she has all the money!

In regards to taxes, I am going to complete mine today. I have unsuccessfully tried to make you understand that by filing jointly as a married couple, we may be getting a little return since I have already paid close to $19,000 in federal taxes. However, you are insisting on paying someone $200 an hour to do something that I have been doing for the past several years. I am going to claim Masseni on my return. Please let me know by 12 noon today whether or not you have claimed any of the kids on yours.

SHE LIED!!In fact:
1. There was no interruption of communication on my part.
2. She is the one who refused to be understanding because she had a hidden agenda. Her intention was to claim both kids all along.

No worries. During the hearing on January 31, your own lawyer suggested that we each claim one kid. I am going to file my taxes without claiming any dependents and then file a motion to the courts for you to reimburse me for the difference in excess taxes that I am going to have to pay, plus attorney and courts fees.

jean Ann,
Unfortunately we did not reach an agreement on any of the issue today. But I will continue to support the kids by sending you a check every 2 weeks and also attend to their basic needs. Although we did not agree on a time sharing agreement, I would like to still see the kids. Please let me know when the kids will be available again for me to spend time with them.
